

What will you do to make good on your pledge to extend the Groceries Code Adjudicator's powers to cover suppliers and producers? The Adjudicator is now up and running and Christine Tacon is doing good work. We've said we will undertake a statutory review of the Adjudicator next year to see how we can best build on its early work – and we will make sure all those people who grow our crops and supply our shops get the protection they need. For too long the balance of power in the food supply chain hasn't always been right.